SIDEKICK LOGISTICS

For agents, teams and brokers: buyers, sellers, rentals and the landlords you manage for

Donna answers every call about your listings, books the showing, and gets the paperwork signed. You stay in the car.

Donna is an AI receptionist built for real estate. She knows every active listing you have, answers "is the house on Belle Maison still available?" with the real answer, books showings on your calendar, texts the showing agreement for signature, sends rental applications, and hands you qualified buyers, sellers and renters with the details already written down.

Hear her yourself. Call the demo line and ask about a 4-bedroom rental, book a showing, or say you're thinking about selling.

THE PROBLEM

The call comes in while you're showing another house. By the time you call back, they've called the sign on the next street.

Buyers and renters call the moment they see a listing, and they call three agents in a row. Whoever picks up first and can actually answer the question gets the showing. Voicemail loses; a generic answering service that can't say how many bedrooms loses almost as badly.

Evenings and weekends are when buyers call, and when you're at showings, open houses and closings.

The same ten questions beds, baths, price, pets, available when, is it still available, can I see it Saturday.

Paperwork before the showing showing agreements, the IABS notice, applications, "text me your license number".

WHAT AGENTS TOLD US

- "I lose rental leads every weekend. By Monday they've signed somewhere else."
- "I need the showing agreement signed before I unlock a door. Chasing that signature is half my texting."
- "A call service can't tell a renter whether the house takes dogs. So the renter hangs up."
- "I manage twelve rentals for a client. The tenants call my cell for everything, including the water heater."
- "If a seller calls, I need to know that minute, not in a voicemail at nine o'clock."

> CALLER "Hi, I saw a house on Belle Maison for rent. Is it still available, and does it have four bedrooms?"
> DONNA "It is. Thirty-nine oh seven Belle Maison is four bedrooms plus a study, three baths, about three thousand square feet, thirty-seven hundred a month, and it allows dogs. There are a few homes on that street with the same floor plan if that one doesn't work out. Would you like to see it? ... Saturday I have eleven, one, or two thirty. ... One o'clock it is. I'll text you a short showing agreement to sign, and once that's done you're confirmed. Are you working with a lender yet, or would you like a referral?"

An example of how a call goes. Donna read the listing from the agent's own records, counted the study when the caller asked for four bedrooms, offered only real openings on the agent's calendar, booked it, sent the agreement, and saved the renter as a lead.

WHAT DONNA DOES

Your listings, your calendar, your forms. Handled on the first call.

Knows your listings

- Answers by address, street, nickname, zip, bedrooms or budget: price or rent, beds and baths, square feet, lot, pets, deposit, available date, HOA, year built.
- Says "four bedrooms plus a study" the way you would, and counts it when someone asks for five.
- Knows what's active, pending, under contract or leased, and never offers a showing on a home that's gone.
- Import your listings from your MLS export in one step, or add them by hand. Change a status and she knows on the next call.

Books the showing

- Offers only the times you've opened, at the length you set, with drive time between showings.
- Texts the caller a confirmation with the address; texts you the booking with the caller's name and number.
- Showing agreement goes out for signature automatically; the showing is confirmed once it's signed (or right away, your choice).
- Listing consultations for sellers, lease signings and move-in walkthroughs book the same way.

Qualifies and hands off the lead

- Buyer, seller, renter or landlord, with what they're looking for: area, budget, bedrooms, move-in date, pre-approved or not, selling a home first.
- Sellers, landlords and pre-approved buyers text you immediately as hot leads. Everyone else lands in your Leads list with notes.
- Texts the Information About Brokerage Services notice to every new lead, once, so it's on file.
- Offers your lender partner to buyers who aren't pre-approved, only if they say yes.

Gets the paperwork signed

- Showing agreement, rental application, buyer and seller intake sheets, or your own document, signed from a text link in under two minutes.
- Signer verifies with a one-time code to their phone, consents to e-sign, draws or types their signature.
- You get a PDF with the signature and a signing certificate: who, phone verified, every timestamp and device, tamper-proof fingerprint of the file.
- Rental application fee paid by card to your account the moment they sign. Donna never holds money.

RENTALS AND THE HOMES YOU MANAGE

One number for the renter looking and the tenant who already moved in.

Many agents manage a few rentals for clients, or their own. Turn on property management and the same Donna handles both sides of that phone: the prospect asking about pets, and the tenant whose water heater quit.

For the renter

- Availability, rent, deposit, pets, minimum lease, move-in date, from your records.
- Books the showing and sends the showing agreement.
- Sends the rental application by text: identity, move-in, occupants, pets, current housing and landlord, employment and income, vehicles, emergency contact. No Social Security or ID numbers over a text link; your screening vendor collects those.
- Application fee to your account on signing; you're texted when it's in.

For the tenant

- Recognizes the tenant and their home from the number they call from.
- Logs a maintenance request with the problem, access instructions and permission to enter, gives them a reference number, and texts you (or your vendor).
- Emergencies (burst pipe, gas smell, no heat in a freeze, break-in) get the safety step first, then page whoever is on call.
- Rent questions, lease dates, renewal interest and move-out notice all get taken down properly.

WHAT THE OWNER'S PHONE SEES

DONNA → YOU "HOT LEAD (seller): Priya Nair +1 (240) 617-4712 is thinking about selling a 4-bed in Mansfield 76063 in the next 60 days, has not talked to another agent. Wants a call this evening after 6. IABS sent."

DONNA → YOU "Showing booked: 3907 Belle Maison Dr, Sat Nov 15, 1:00 PM, Marcus Lee +1 (817) 555-0142. Showing agreement signed 2:14 PM today. Renter, 2 adults, 1 dog, move-in Dec 1, budget $3,800."

BUILT FOR A LICENSED BUSINESS

She says what's in your records. Nothing she'd have to be licensed to say.

Donna is a receptionist, not an agent. The guardrails are written into her, not left to chance.

Fair Housing, every call

- Never characterizes a neighborhood, schools, "safety" or "what kind of people live there." Offers the same homes to every caller.
- Answers "is it a good area?" with facts she has (distance, HOA, year built) and an offer to have you call.
- Treats every caller the same on price, availability and showings.

No advice she can't give

- Never quotes commission, never gives a home value or price opinion, never gives legal or lending advice. Those become a callback for you.
- Never takes a card number, Social Security number or ID number by phone.
- Never says when an occupied home is empty. Never reads a lockbox code aloud.

Paperwork that holds up

- Every signature carries a certificate: phone verified by one-time code, consent to e-sign, timestamps for sent, opened, verified and signed, IP and device, a SHA-256 fingerprint of the PDF. ESIGN and UETA statement on the page.
- Signed documents live in your account, downloadable any time. Showing agreements signed in the last six months aren't re-sent to the same person.
- Contracts that belong in the transaction file stay in your transaction system; Donna handles the forms that come before.

Your data stays yours

- Listings, leads, documents, call recordings and transcripts are in your account only. Nothing is shared between agents or brokerages.
- Every call is transcribed and summarized; every text she sends is in your inbox.
- Export listings and leads to a spreadsheet whenever you like.

SET UP

Thirty minutes, and she's answering.

Pick Real estate, tell her what you do (residential, commercial, land, rentals, and whether you manage rentals for owners), add your license and broker, paste your IABS link, set your showing length and hours, then import your listings. Your number is live at the end of it.

Starter

One agent. Your listings, your calendar, your leads.

- Phone answering 24/7 in 25 languages
- Listing lookup, showings, consultations
- Showing agreements, applications and intake forms signed by text
- Hot-lead texts, IABS delivery, lender referral
- Application fees to your own account
- Optional property-management module for rentals you manage

Pro

Brokerage or team. One number for the office, every agent's listings on it.

- Everything in Starter for the whole office, no per-seat fee
- All the office's listings answered from one number
- Broker sees every call, lead, showing and signed document across the office
- One showing agreement and one set of intake forms for the whole brokerage
- Agents and staff each get their own login

WHAT YOU'LL NEED

- Your active listings: an export from your MLS, a spreadsheet, or ten minutes to type them in.
- Your license number, sponsoring broker, and the link to your IABS notice.
- The days and hours you show, how long a showing runs, and whether you want the agreement signed before you confirm.
- Optional: your lender partner's name and number, your application fee, and your Stripe login (or five minutes to create one).
